The Health & Productivity Equation: Reduced Functional Impairment=Improved Work Performance

Functional Impairment (aka "Presenteeism") is best understood as "the impaired ability to perform job tasks because of health conditions." Reducing these impairments increases work performance – or $RFI = IWP$

As we emerge from the pandemic with remote or dispersed workforces and changing employer needs, meeting the challenge of reducing employees' functional impairment at work through health and productivity management (HPM) has become more vital than ever.
